What is the process to become a lifeguard?

Although candidates must be 17 years old to begin working as a lifeguard, they can participate in LAC-PAT before that time. The Department of Recreation and Parks provides this training at each of its year-round swimming pools on an on-going basis.

How do I find out if I'm a strong enough swimmer?

Contact the manager at your local City-operated year-round pool (listed on back) and ask to have a lifeguard swim assessment. If necessary, the manager can direct you to programming that will improve your swim skills and prepare you to take the swim portion of the lifeguard test.

How do I obtain the necessary training and certifications?

Each year-round pool offers the Los Angeles City Pre Academy Training program. LAC-PAT is a series of classes that provides the training and certifications required to apply for the job. There is also continuing physical training to prepare for the lifeguard test.

What is the lifeguard test?

At different times throughout the year, the City conducts testing to qualify lifeguard candidates for hire. The test consists of a standardized swim test and an interview. The standardized swim test consists of a 70 foot simulated victim retrieval and a 200 yard specialized medley swim. The two swim tests are timed and there is a minimum passing time standard.

If I pass the test, how soon can I begin working?

There are additional steps to complete before lifeguard candidates begin working. All candidates must possess the LAC-PAT certifications, although these can be obtained after taking the lifeguard test. Also, candidates who pass the lifeguard test must complete a paid, multi-day Lifeguard Academy training program. Finally, during the hiring process, all candidates will receive a physical exam and background check to demonstrate fitness for employment.

How do I get information on the upcoming testing and training dates?

If you complete an Individual Recruiting Card, you will be mailed notice of upcoming test dates. To participate in the Lifeguard Training program, contact your nearest City of Los Angeles year-round pool:
