THE PROGRAM ___

The Good Food Purchasing Program provides a metric based, flexible framework that encourages large institutions to direct their buying power toward five core values: local economies, environmental sustainability, valued workforce, animal welfare and nutrition. The Good Food Purchasing Program is the first procurement model to support these food system values in equal measure.

with community members to facilitate engagement and transparency.

- Dedicate staff time to engaging with community members (including, but not limited to, people served by meal programs, food service workers, constituents, and local food businesses) in informing values-based purchasing decisions and processes.
- Have or develop a supplier/vendor diversification plan with goals that include reporting and accountability measures. Measures should be disaggregated by demographic group, including race and gender. Plan implementation should prioritize purchases and address barriers to entry for suppliers who have experienced negative systemic social and/or economic impacts such as (but not limited to) women, veterans, persons with disabilities, and especially people of color, across all supply chains and to the greatest extent possible.
- Develop and implement comprehensive institutional policy(ies) that reflect community needs and values and prioritize transparency, racial equity, local economies, environmental sustainability, valued workforce, animal welfare, and community health and nutrition within their operations and food procurement. Ensure these institutional policies are embedded in agreements for contracted food services and that mechanisms are developed to ensure compliance and accountability through reporting and active contract management.

that supports it. When buying power remains within a regional economy—across production, processing, manufacturing and distribution in a given region—it creates shorter, more resilient supply chains and the potential for a circular economy. In a circular economy, different sectors are mutually reinforcing.

STRATEGIES

To strengthen equity and resilience in a local economy, institutional procurement and related strategies should:

- Prioritize local suppliers, especially small and mid-sized farms, manufacturers, and food businesses that are privately, cooperatively, or nonprofit owned and operated within a 250 mile radius.
- Prioritize suppliers that are entrepreneurs of color and community members most impacted by current and historic economic marginalization.
- Leverage institutional buying power, infrastructure, financial resources, staff time, and land in support of community members, food producers, and food workers who have experienced negative systemic social and/or economic impacts.
- Build partnerships with community members to ensure that food products and menus reflect the interests and cultures of everyone they serve.
- Identify pathways for purchasing from small and communitybased suppliers for products that can't be grown or harvested within the mileage limitations, such as seafood, coffee, cocoa, and sugar.

VISION

Environmentally sustainable farms and food businesses build healthy ecosystems by improving soil health, increasing biodiversity, reducing the use of fossil fuel-based pesticides and fertilizers, and reducing the carbon and water footprint of food production—while advancing public health and worker safety. Environmentally sustainable fishing operations protect habitat, ensure wild sustainable fish stocks, support traditional and local fishing economies—while advancing public health and worker safety. The promotion of climate-friendly diets and sustainably produced foods can reduce the environmental impact of our food system and incentivize the adoption of sustainable farming, fishing, ranching, and business practices.

STRATEGIES

- 1. Purchase environmentally sustainable food, from suppliers that:
  - community health and universal rights to clean air and water:
  - the reduction or elimination of synthetic pesticides and fertilizers;
  - improved soil health and carbon sequestration;
  - reduced fossil fuel energy inputs and the protection of water resources:
  - biodiversity and ecological resilience;
  - reduced food waste;
  - reduced greenhouse gas emissions; and
  - the reduction or elimination of single-use plastics and other resource-intensive packaging mental, and behavioral needs are met throughout their lives. This can be understood through the five domains of animal wellbeing:

- 1. nutrition;
- 2. physical environment;
- 3. health;

Farms and ranches with high animal welfare practices ensure responsible care and stewardship of farmed animals that also create positive impacts for the health of surrounding communities and ecosystems.

Institutional procurement and related strategies focused on community health and nutrition promote healthy and resilient communities. Institutions act in partnership with their communities to improve health as they promote and expand access to nutritious food relevant to the people they serve. Institutions prioritize procuring whole or minimally processed foods, including vegetables, fruit, and whole grains; and serving plant-forward foods, which honor communities' food traditions and protect against food-related chronic disease.

Note: Different institution types may have differing abilities to directly impact community health and institutions serve different populations that may have varying health and nutritional needs.

WHY PROCUREMENT

Changing the food system means creating a system based on values. It means understanding relationships between distributors, vendors, and their suppliers and increasing transparency along the entire supply chain.

Every year, public institutions across the United States – from school districts to city governments – spend billions of dollars on food purchases. They have the opportunity to lead the movement for food system change and express their community's values while influencing supply chains.

The Standards are a scoring methodology and rating system by which the Center for Good Food Purchasing analyzes how institutional food purchasing aligns with values of the Good Food Purchasing Program. The Standards provide a framework to guide institutions, policymakers, and community-based organizations and grassroots coalitions in using public food dollars to support community values and reimagine a food system based on racial equity, transparency, and accountability. Through the Program, the Center works with institutions to establish supply chain transparency from farm to fork, evaluate how current purchasing practices align with the Good Food Purchasing Standards, assist with goal setting, measure progress, and celebrate institutional successes in shifting towards a values-based purchasing model. The Center issues a Good Food Provider verification seal to participating institutions that meet baseline requirements across the five value categories. The core components of adoption are:

The Center for Good Food Purchasing provides annual independent analysis of an institution's purchasing data and provides a verification seal with individualized, branded materials to institutions that meet baseline requirements across the five value categories.

Qualifying criteria, including third party certifications, referenced in the Good Food Purchasing Standards are carefully considered by a panel of issue area experts and reviewers. To be included, certifications are ranked according to rigor, auditing process, and alignment with the Program's vision for change.

The Good Food Purchasing Standards undergo a regular review and update process that includes extensive stakeholder outreach and input.

For a copy of the Standards, email info@goodfoodpurchasing.org.

Key Changes:

- Updates to performance recognition, including a switch to Good Food Leader and the addition of tiers of performance (Gold, Silver, Bronze). These changes are intended to reflect that many institutions are taking leadership in the Program and within their institutions, even before they are able to achieve the highest level of program performance. The levels of performance still require an equal weight to each of the five program values and progression over time, critical features of the Good Food Purchasing Program.
- New Equity, Accountability and Transparency requirements that encourage practices that are fundamental to a successful values-based purchasing initiative:
  community engagement, supplier diversification, a policy commitment, and transparency.
- Addition of targets in Local and Community-Based Economies for sourcing from People of Color and suppliers who have experienced negative systemic social practice, including hybrid options for meeting targets in Environmental Sustainability and Animal Welfare by both increasing purchases of qualifying items and reducing carbon/water footprint or animal product purchases.

- Strengthened guidance around Valued Workforce standards with an aim to deepen the impact of implementation on outcomes for workers (e.g. incorporation of contractual commitments for vendors around labor law compliance and sanctions for non-compliance).
- Expanded Community Health & Nutrition requirements, including the addition of a target for increasing whole and minimally processed food purchases over time.

SUMMARY

The Summer Food Service Program (SFSP) is a federally funded program administered by the California Department of Education (CDE) that reimburses agencies for providing nutritious meals to children 18 years of age and younger. RAP submits an annual application to the CDE for its Summer Lunch Program. The application for the program is due on May 13, 2024.

RAP has participated in the SFSP since 1975. The program provides free lunches at about 100 RAP facilities during the summer months when the Los Angeles Unified School District (LAUSD) schools are not in session. All sites are "drop-in" locations where meals are available to all children in the area. A list of sites is herein included as Attachment 1. Children do not need to apply, meet eligibility requirements, sign up or sign in. The lunches are nutritious and well-balanced meals that must meet Federal meal pattern requirements.

The 2024 SFSP reimbursement rate is $5.13 per lunch. An increase in the rate of reimbursement is determined by the United States Department of Agriculture each January. Reimbursements are calculated based on the number of "first" meals (meals served that do not include leftovers or second servings to the same children) with an allowance for second servings to be claimed. During the 2023 summer season, RAP served 146,959 lunches at 99 parks and was reimbursed $715,690.33, based on the 2023 reimbursement rate of $4.87 per meal.

LAUSD's Food Service Division has provided healthy lunches for the Summer Lunch Program since the summer of 2014 and will be the provider for 2024. LAUSD has agreed to a price of $5.00 per lunch for summer 2024.

The Summer Lunch Program is set to operate June 13, 2024 to August 2, 2024.

FISCAL IMPACT

Projected expenses for the Summer Lunch Program for 2024 are approximately $914,000.00; which includes the cost of lunches, program monitors, and other program costs. The anticipated reimbursement is $826,000.00. RAP will complement the grant in the amount of approximately $88,000.00.

STRATEGIC PLAN INITIATIVES AND GOALS

Approval of this Report advances RAP's Strategic Plan by supporting:

Goal No. 2: Offer Affordable and Equitable Recreational Programming Improved health and social equity for young Angelenos
